Axilon: Legend of Artifacts – Prologue is the prologue to Axilon: Legends. Accessible both through pre-order and via the free demo, Prologue gives players the chance to complete a number of sandbox-style missions, allowing them to experience the tactical experience and real-time strategy of Axilon: Legends. About The Game Axilon: Legends Taking the best features of RTS, sandbox and RPG games, Axilon: Legends features an unparalleled tactical action experience. From the moment you step into your battlesuit, you'll understand why Axilon: Legends has been called "the most immersive RTS ever created". The action is intense, the gameplay is deep, and as you march forward, you'll discover countless secrets and surprises to add to your arsenal. Features Epic, tactical action – As a rookie, you'll discover that everything you learn about your battlesuit comes from trial and error. This really is the most immersive RTS ever made, as you will never know what you'll face on a mission, and very rarely will you have adequate information to rely upon. Learn new skills and abilities as you play, and if you are good you will be able to perform incredible feats as you fight your way through an enemy's defenses and attack their key points. Evolve your battlesuit – As you play, you'll unlock new battlesuits and equipment. A unique feature of Axilon: Legends is that every item you earn has a direct impact on your battlesuit. Using this system, you will find that your battlesuit will continue to evolve as you progress through the game. New weapons and equipment will be added as you progress through your career, and the higher you advance, the higher your battlesuit will be rated. Deep, RPG-style experience – The battlesuits are the central core of Axilon: Legends. They are developed into the teams you will lead in battle, and as you progress through the game, you'll be able to customize your missions from the ground up, creating teams that are custom-built to your specifications. Battle space is vast, and each battle will take place on a completely different map, constantly evolving as you play through the game. Command your men to fight the way you want them to fight, and inspire them to be as tough as you want them to be, and as soon as they overcome an obstacle, they will do it again, and again, and again

If you liked it - please donate. You can choose to pay with Bitcoin, Litecoin, or PayPal. Thanks. Q: Load texture in Libgdx I am new to libgdx so this is my first attempt. I have a large.tga image and want to load it and use it in my game. I would prefer to use as close as possible to the true photoshop or paintbrush methods. The image is made up of hexagons. I have looked at different methods and all of them seem like they over kill me. I want to be able to load the image in a texture. Ideas? A: If you can use image filters in Photoshop you should be able to do the same in Libgdx without having to port your images to something like PNG. You should be able to load an image as follows: Texture image = new Texture(Gdx.files.internal("myimage.png")); This will open a file browser, select the file, and then immediately return the texture. You can then use it normally: image.setScale(2f, 2f); image.flip(); image.setOrigin(0f, 0f); image.setAnchor(0.5f, 0.5f); You should be able to then use the image normally, for example to make a hexagonal panel: image.getTextureRegion().flip(); image.getTextureRegion().setColor(Color.WHITE); image.getTextureRegion().addRect(0, 0, 16, 16); image.getTextureRegion().addRect(16, 16, 16, 16); image.getTextureRegion().addRect(32, 32, 16, 16); image.getTextureRegion().addRect(48, 48, 16, 16); image.getTextureRegion().addRect(64, 64, 16, 16); When you are done with the texture you can then call image.dispose(); This will give you back the image you have loaded in as a texture. What's new in REFLASER:

: A Trip Down Memory Lane Of Tokyo's Golden Era On this edition of Good Men Project Weekly, the reader email is inspired by two classic Japanese gangsters from the golden era: Tatsuo Minami (see image above) in 1949 and Masao Yamamoto in 1966. 42-year-old Katsunori "Choto" Shimoda, from the banner for Mr. Masao Yamamoto, is a "salaryman" at a software development company. He noticed an aging man staring at his screen in the cafeteria. "I thought about what he was thinking." "He became a salaryman with hope that he could retire with security, but here he is—it had only taken 15 years." "As a retired man, he may choose not to start work again, and not to live with us." "It was true what he was thinking." "I decided to visit him at his home." By the way, he lives in a brand new suburban high-rise. He met the old man at his door. "Your wife is still young, so it's hard for her to work, though she's worried about us." Shimoda spoke easy. He introduced himself and told the man's address. "I had hoped to see you when my wife and I started a new life." Shimoda laughed at his old man taking a careful look at him. "I know. I have a hard time fighting depression. It's so funny. You're fine," he joked. The retirement man was Shinmin Kimura. Their 2nd common household name is Kimura. "An unexpected visit...I'm visiting you now." "But you never turned to me." Actually, he did, but he didn't need to come to the house. "Please, when you're no longer well, just say it." "Why, you don't need to come all this way. It's not good. My wife thinks the same way." "Mr. Kimura, even if you were
